

Activating The “Law Of Life”

Have you activated the “Law of Life?”

If you feel like you’re going around in circles, if the same thoughts and feelings keep surfacing and you think to yourself “is anything ever going to change?” or “when is it going to stop?” - you try to be positive and take control of your life only to find you end up back in the same old place, then you might like to continue reading... This is how I used to feel too.

What’s missing?

The activation of the “Law of Life” is missing!

Some people believe they have lived other life times, and others do not, and that’s all fine, because beliefs are just beliefs, they change throughout your lifetime - however, what if you have lived other lifetimes, how might that be effecting this embodiment, the life you are living now. This works whether you believe in reincarnation or not by the way, after all it’s this current life that we are living and want to enjoy.

What if you could start a practise, an activation, that starts to move you forward. Would you be interested? You’d be mad not to be.

If you set the “Law of Life” into action it would come forth and dissolve the blocks within you that have been holding you back. These blocks are heavy and hold a lot of “pressure” in your body and your world. The heaviness and the pressure I mention here is literal, discord feels like a heavy load, and it has a degree of pressure that you feel within your body. All the accumulation, all the discord which has been in your experience of the past, still remains in and about you, and in your world. Believe it or not! You meet all of that accumulation when you come back into your current embodiment.

You can’t release the past on your own! It’s exhausting, and too heavy to do alone, there’s too much accumulated pressure, which is extremely dense sitting within and around you. The pressures you feel in life are in-fact pressures held within and around you, they are not just thoughts and emotions that you can change simply, there’s more to it than that. Thoughts and emotions are connected to, and a part of the accumulated pressure from the past. As long as that discord remains in and around you, so do its aligned thoughts and emotions, and its impact. You can’t just change your thoughts, you have to remove the root cause, the discord that the thought is attached to, then the discordant thoughts and emotions will dissolve naturally.

You can’t move this accumulated past experience on your own, it has become a pressure that is so compressed, volatile, and powerful, it holds you captive and yet you are unaware of its subconscious grip. If you could move it on your own, you would have already seen results of that in your life.

All human beings crave freedom, peace, lightness and happiness, and to have this you have to release the accumulation of the past. How do you do that? You activate the “Law of Life”.

As the pressure is released from you and your world, you will feel so much lighter, freer, more peaceful and happier. This is your guide, your measure as to how you are tracking, you will know how you are doing by the level of heaviness/lightness you feel, and the level of disturbance/peace you experience. This will be noticeable in both your inner and outer worlds.

Activating The “Law Of Life”

To active the “Law of Life” you are not going outside of yourself. This activation happens within yourself. It’s simple and yet extraordinary! As one of my clients said this week as his activation was taking place, he was shown “it’s been there all the time, and it is here now, and it will always be there”. He just didn’t know it was there... It wasn’t activated until that moment. That was also my experience, and thousands of other peoples too. It is there just waiting for you to activate it. Freedom and joy awaits you!

When you active the “Law of Life” you open up to a whole new opportunity and understanding. It doesn’t happen on its own though, you must activate it.

The “Law of Life” Activation

Saturday August 15

Activate the “Law of Life” - lighten your load. and start moving towards freedom, peace and happiness.

© Christine Heart Savage
www.breatheforlife.com.au